Setup script as an administrator. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a distributed server system in which terminals such as information processing devices are connected through a local area network. 2. Description of the Related Art Recently, information processing devices such as personal computers are connected to a network by means of a local area network (LAN) or the like in order to distribute information and data and to perform real time communication among the information processing devices. A server system is provided in each information processing device, and a request from a client terminal is accepted by a selected server system. The client terminal may be a terminal connected to the local area network, or a terminal connected to another network such as the Internet. The information processing devices are connected to the local area network by using, for example, coaxial cables. The local area network is further connected to another network, the Internet for example, through a router. In the conventional server system, a modem is used to perform data communication on the local area network by connecting the information processing devices to the local area network. According to the above-described conventional server system, if the number of information processing devices connected to the local area network is increased, the number of modems provided 82157476af
